Dear:

I am interested in a staff position with your company. My experience with creating mixed media over the years has equipped me to be the right individual to add to your team of designers.

Since 1997 I've developed and maintained a number of web sites. I'm proficient with Photoshop and Illustrator and able to work creatively in Dreamweaver to put it all together. I'm experienced with CSS, HTML. More than that, I know how to apply the communication skills I've learned over the years into a highly usable design. For many years, I've worked closely with clients to help them develop communication points and bring their vision from conception to completion. I'm teachable, a team player, and thrive in collaborative situations. I pride myself in being able to communicate a message visually through text, motion, or video. Through this, I believe I can develop interactivity that will communicate the client's message.

I believe I am the right person for the job, and have attached a resume. I'm looking forward to the chance of meeting you for an interview to discuss the position further and find ways that my varied experience might compliment your company. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Jeff Stoltzfus
